

an environmental center program

RethinkWasteProject.org

RETHINK WASTE TRAINING OVERVIEW

The Environmental Center's Rethink Waste Project (RWP) envisions a community that makes responsible decisions about the consumption, use, and disposal of materials. We provide education and engagement opportunities, including web and print resources, community events and presentations, advertising, technical assistance and more! Our goal is to empower Deschutes County residents, visitors, and businesses to prevent waste and then recover as much as possible through individual behavior changes as well as systems changes.

Rethink Waste Trainings are one hour-long, interactive community presentations. Training participants will be able to...

- describe upstream and downstream, global and local impacts of an unsustainable relationship with "stuff;"
- describe multiscale actions across the waste hierarchy (reduce, reuse, recycle/compost);
- identify local waste prevention and recovery resources; and
- properly sort items for local recycling and composting.

Contact naomi@envirocenter.org to schedule a training (virtual or in person).

